

People and Cultures

A Bubble Map can be used to identify the qualities of a person or culture. In order to “Think Like a Historian,” students should be encouraged to add a Frame of Reference to their map in order to identify the historic context or influences or certain points of view that might impact the descriptors used to describe this person or culture.

A Tree Map can be used to identify specific categories for student research about a place or culture.

Use a Double Bubble Map to compare and contrast two different people, cultures, time periods, etc.
