

Historic Events

The study of historic events involves looking not only at a sequence of events but also at the causes and effects of these events. Students can record events in a sequence using the Flow Map.

The Flow Map that students create can name the events in the sequence (as shown above) or can include key information about each event (as shown in the example below).

